THE ORFORD, IN ANCASTER STONE

The Orford is a beautifully proportioned chimneypiece in the Regency style and part of the Todhunter Earle Interiors collaboration. The reeded jambs are surmounted by carved acanthus brackets with a plain centre block and a moulded shelf above. The sample is made in English Ancaster which is a distinctive and durable limestone quarried in the village of Ancaster in Lincolnshire. Prized for both its strength and aesthetic appeal, Ancaster stone offers a timeless, elegant appearance that matures beautifully over time. Made in the UK. Could be made in various marbles/limestones and could be in custom sizes as required. N.B. May be subject to an extended lead time, please enquire for more information.
