THE ELMSETT, IN ITALIAN ARABESCATO MARBLE

The Elmsett is a quality French marble chimneypiece, and part of the Todhunter Earle Interiors collaboration. A fusion between classical and contemporary, this design takes its influence from the Louis XVI period. The jambs have tapering stop flutes surmounted by a panelled frieze with matching stop-flutes within central plaque and within end blockings with a shaped, moulded shelf above. The stock version is made in high-quality Italian Arabescato marble quarried in the Apuan Alps of Tuscany, Italy and renowned for its striking, intricate veining and elegant appearance. This chimneypiece could be made in various marbles/limestones and could be in custom sizes as required.. N.B. May be subject to an extended lead time, please enquire for more information.
